

HOPE IN COLORADO FOR G. O. P. LEADERS

Managers of Hughes Campaign Encouraged by Reports From the State.

SEE GAIN OF ONE IN HOUSE

Special Dispatch to The Star.
DENVER, Col., October 7.—The republican state organization claims three of the four representatives to Congress from Colorado; the democratic leaders do the same.

To the independent onlooker the matter stands "fifty-fifty"—two republicans and two democrats—leaving Messrs. Taylor and Keating to return and Hilliard to be defeated by a republican in the district made up of Denver. This would make a republican gain of one.

Thus, there is a fighting chance for Hilliard, but there also is a fighting chance to defeat Keating in his district, which, in all things else, is republican.

The national republican congressional committee, that has western headquarters in Denver, has set down Colorado as an even break next time.

Drift Toward Hughes.

As to the presidential election, the republican managers are more encouraged than they were a fortnight ago and, candidly, the democratic leaders are not quite so sure. Whatever of change has been toward the Hughes and of the campaign. Canvases in different sections of the state have revealed some face-abouts from four years ago that neither side looked for. Thus, quite a number of voters who voted for Wilson last time have declared they will vote for Hughes this time—and they are or were democrats. The reasons assigned are generally one of two—Mexico and the European war. A number of democrats object to Wilson's recognition of Carranza and have accepted as true the allegations against the latter of prejudice toward the church and its devotees.

On the other hand it is surprising the number of former progressives who have declared their intention of supporting Wilson as the real progressive in this campaign. Edward F. Costigan, leader of the progressive party in this state, is out this week for Wilson, and he has a considerable following in the ranks of labor and among the philosophical reformers and woman folks. In a long statement he strikes at the Hughes judicial stand on labor as compared with Wilson's record at the White House.

Progressive Orators Benefit Wilson.

So far the progressive speakers in behalf of Wilson have had the field to themselves, and they have done more good for the candidate than have the regular democratic orators.

But after all it is the old story of "Cherchez la femme." The women will decide the presidential vote in this and adjoining states.

The other afternoon there was a meeting of one of the largest literary clubs in the city, composed of women in society and prominent in public affairs. The discussion was on the essay by Agnes Repplier on "Sentiment and the War," in which the brilliant essayist took the nation to task for its indifference and its desire to fatten on the blood of Europe.

Strange as it may appear, Miss Repplier had few friends in that audience. She, by indirection, counseled war for honor's sake. Not so the Denver club members.

Naturally the conversation turned to the more concrete affair of the presidential election, and the position of Wilson was upheld by a decisive majority by an audience that, say two years ago, would have declared sympathetically for Roosevelt.

This situation finds duplication in other cities in adjoining states where the women vote.

Woman's Party Renews Attack.

The national woman's party has returned to the attack here after ten days of retirement. The first assault was not a success, and new leaders were sent for to address the public on the highways and byways regarding the necessity of electing Hughes by reason of his support of the federal suffrage amendment.

Rosa Wenclow, or Rose Winslow, as she is known to the many, a Pole, is the center of attraction. She is young, interesting and appealing. Her appeal is different from the stereotyped.

This is how she puts the case to the women of the enfranchised states: "The industrial situation is not so acute out west as it is in the east. Out here the industrial question is a man's question. Your factories aren't filled with woman workers. In the east it is as big a woman's question as it is a man's. Here you have an eight-hour law. In New York and the other big industrial centers of the east women toil in sweatshops from twelve to fourteen hours a day or work behind the counter in department stores for starvation wages. Unless these women are given the vote they are without hope."

Says Women Are "Too Humble."

"Women are too humble. They meekly ask for things which they should demand. In the east the women ask. What is the use of demanding when they have no power to back them up? What they need is the consciousness of power, and this they cannot get without the vote."

"They can make demands and try to get them by striking. But a strike means hardship and probably defeat. Only by political action can they get the means to back up their demands."

"The woman workers in the east have a struggle even to get into the labor unions. The man unionists regard them as a drag because they have no power to help secure legislation."

TO PAY TRIBUTE TO POET.

Indiana Will Laud James Whitcomb Riley Tonight.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., October 7.—A memorial meeting in honor of the late James Whitcomb Riley will be held in a local theater tomorrow night, on the anniversary of the poet's birth. Among those who will attend and take part in the program are Dr. John H. Finley, commissioner of education of New York; Dr. Henry Augustus Beers, formerly at Yale; Robert Underwood Johnson, representing the American Academy of Arts and Letters, and Dr. William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana University, who will preside at the meeting. The meeting is to be under the direction of the Riley Memorial Association.

Death of Gen. C. D. Vile.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., October 7.—Brig. Gen. Charles Delavain Vile, seventy-five years old, retired, veteran of the civil and Spanish-American wars, died here yesterday, after a short illness. His wife died several years ago. A sister, Mrs. Talbot Oliphant of New York, is the only surviving relative. Gen. Vile served at the siege of Vicksburg and participated in the battle of San Juan hill. His commands took part in various Indian campaigns in frontier days.

The Starr Phonograph

"The Phonograph With the Singing Throat"

WE are offering to the music lovers of this city the latest and most wonderful development among talking machines. Because it is fundamentally right in construction, the tone of the Starr is free from any features which you may have thought objectionable in earlier instruments. The difference is in the tone. There are many distinctive features—for instance, it is the first phonograph primarily designed to play every style of disc record. A phonograph cannot be described. It must be demonstrated. Won't you come in to see the Starr?

The Starr Phonograph Settles the Record Question

The Heart of the Phonograph

THE heart is the center of all action. The one most important, most vital organ in nature. That is why we term the sound box the heart of the phonograph.

To the casual observer, the Starr Sound Box is just a sound box.

Does it improve the tone quality?

The Starr Sound Box is distinctly different in results. Come in and prove this to yourself.

Special Introductory Club Terms

FOR those who wish to buy on our liberal "Club terms" we have a special "Club combination," so that you may have a full assortment of records to start your collection. As an introductory offer we are giving special terms this week. We would be pleased to give you a demonstration.

Starr Art Styles

$100 $125 $150 $175 $200

Empire Styles

$15 $25 $40 $50 $75

The Sounding Board Horn "Just Like a Violin"

THE Sounding Board Horn of the Starr is made of Adirondack Silver-grain Spruce, the same wood of which all fine violins are made.

The Sounding Board Horn of the Starr Phonograph hangs free, with an unrestricted vibration, from the smallest end of the graduated neck to the widest flare of the horn.

There is not a joint or metal connection which will retard the magnificent tone.

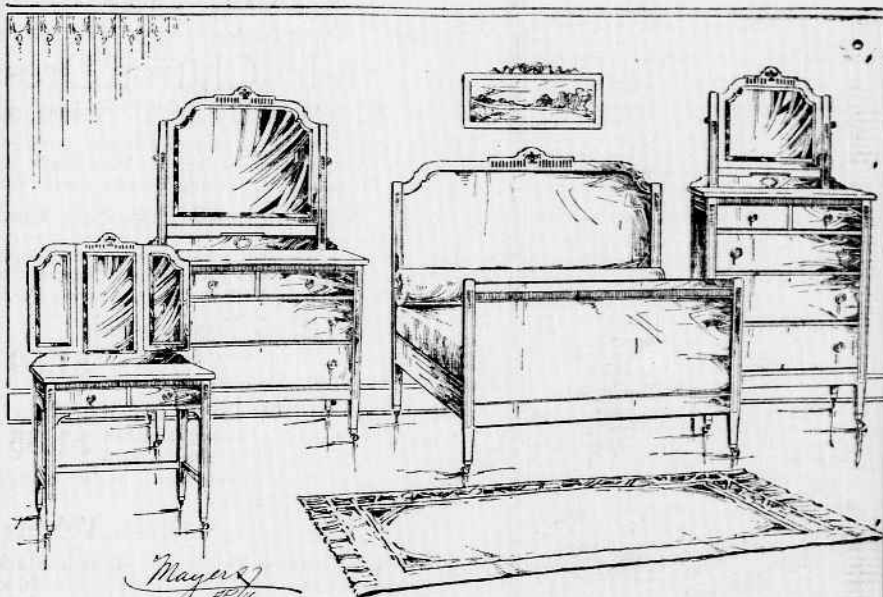

The Violin Wood Sounding Board is the reason for the silvery purity of the Starr tone.

Over 200,000 Records at Your Service With a "Starr"

THE STARR was primarily designed to play every make of disc record made for any other phonograph. The Starr plays every one, as each should be played.

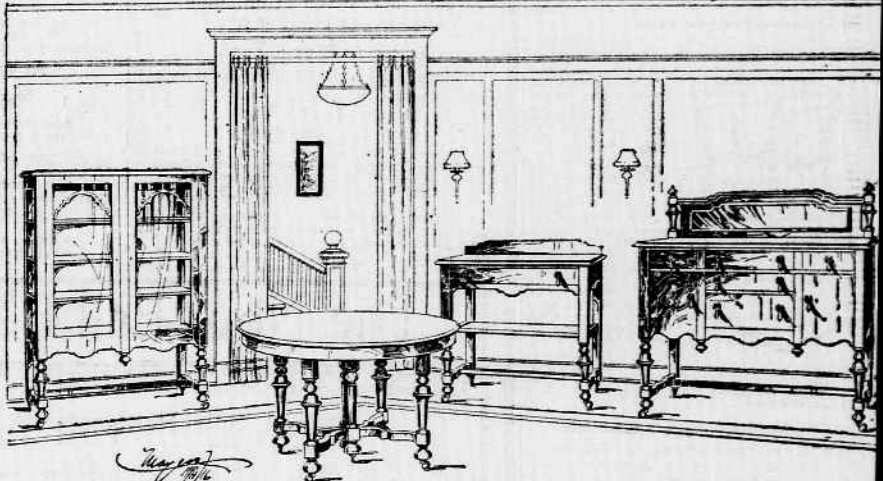

This assures you of the greatest range in musical taste and does not restrict you to any one make of records.

There is no extra charge for this feature which puts the world's library of records at your command.
